I'm Robert Fox.

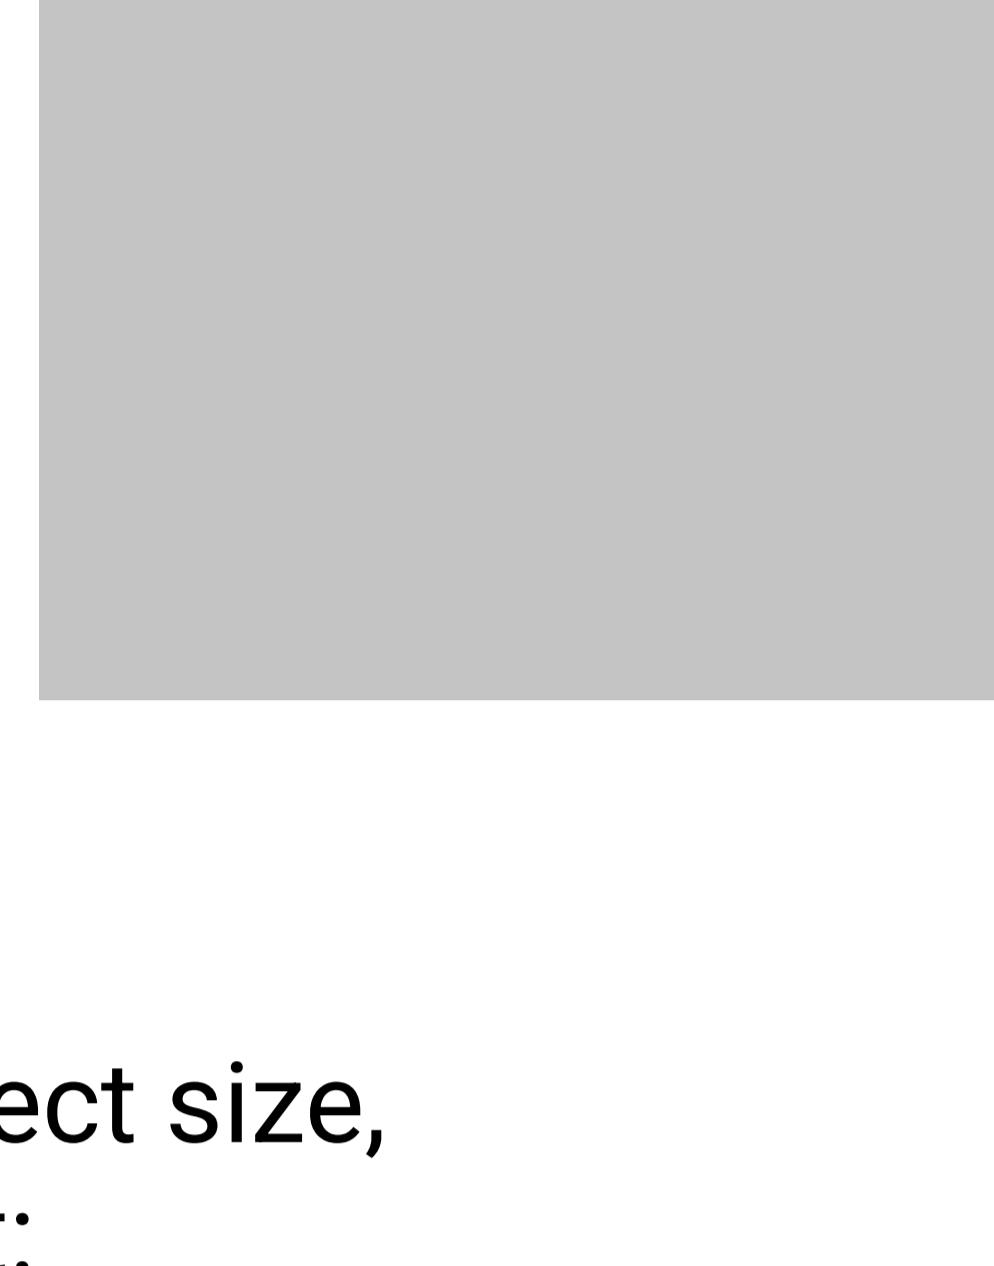

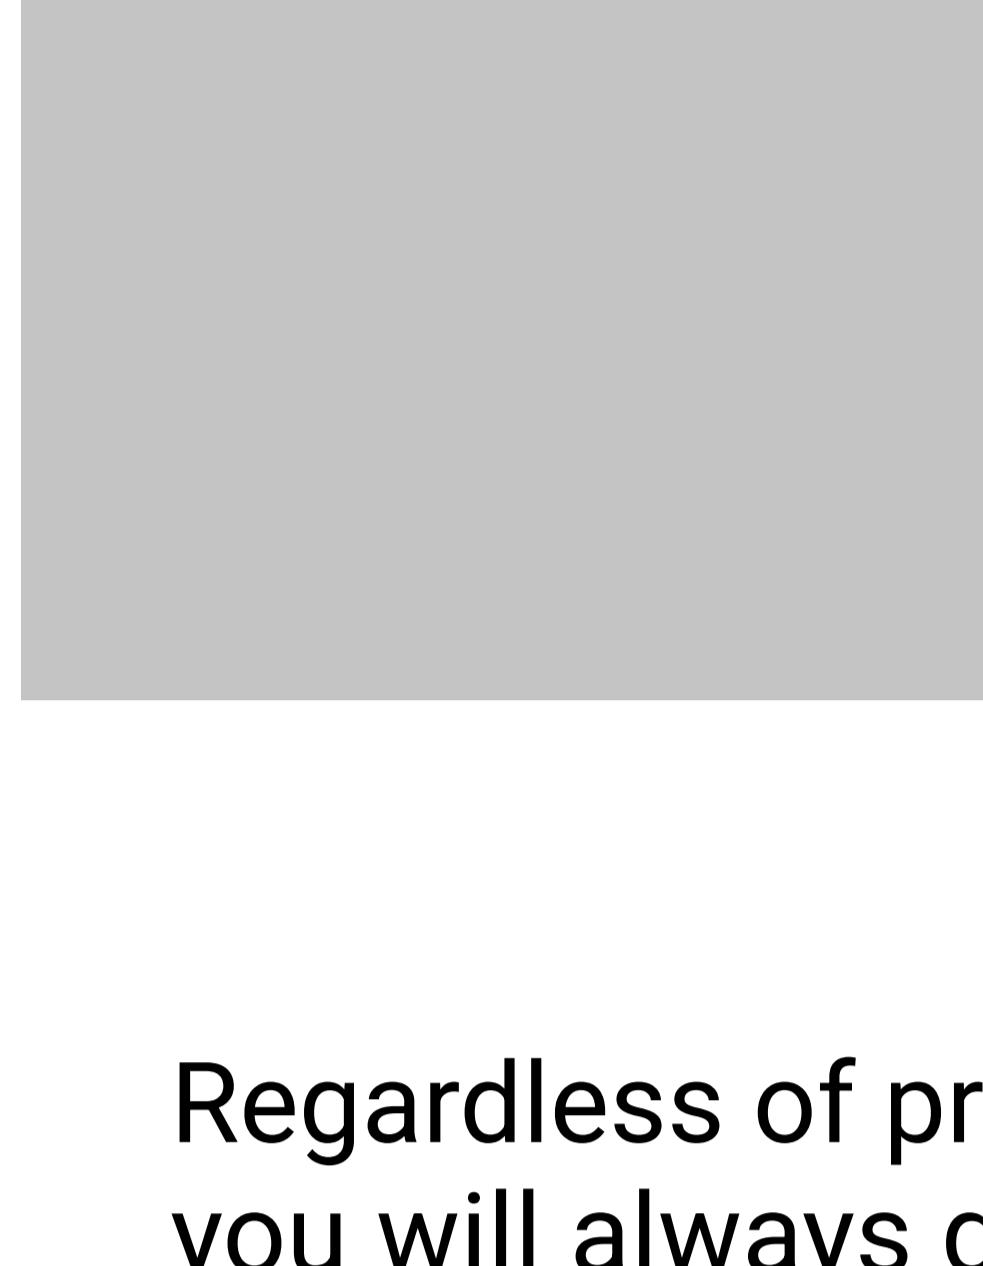

I was born in Henderson, Nevada almost three decades ago. From an early age I showed interest for computers and that grew into a passion during high school.

I got into web design and development in college. Attending the Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh was the best decision I ever made because it showed me what I wanted to do for the rest of my life.

Currently I help businesses all around the world by designing and coding websites and mobile apps.

I had the pleasure of working with big companies like Apple, Microsoft and Amazon, just to name a few.

Right now I'm based in New York.

Regardless of project size, you will always get:

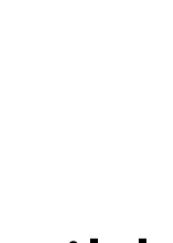

1. On-time delivery

I know time is money so I don't want to waste yours. Or mine. So I guarantee that I will always deliver what you pay for as promised.

2. Quality

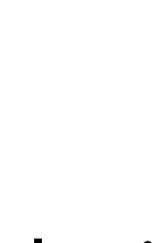

I don't want to put my name on something subpar so my first concern is always quality. No matter what, you will love the end result.

James Wittings
Marketing Director at Amazon

"Robert is great. We worked together really well and we'll definitely contract his services in the future."

Creative Director at GitHub

I can design and build a responsive and accessible website

My goal is to build accessible and responsive user interfaces for the web and mobile, while preserving the best practices for proper user experience.

I can design and build an eCommerce store

I have extensive knowledge of development on the front-end and back-end so I'm able to deliver a completely functional eCommerce website.

I can design and build a mobile app for iOS and Android

I recently started designing and coding mobile apps and I love it. It's a different process compared to traditional website design but I've been successful in all projects so far.

- Do you charge by the hour?

I do not charge by the hour. I prefer to eliminate the stress of counting the hours. Instead, I charge a flat fee per project, regardless of duration.
